Introduction

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AIR FORCE BASE

Wright-Patterson Air Force Base (WPAFB) is one of the U.S. Air Force's largest and most important installations. It is the birthplace, home and future of aerospace. Huffman Prairie Flying Field, located adjacent to the base's main runway is the site of the world's first operational airfield and where the Wright-Brothers, in their own words, "really learned to fly."

With more than 27,000 Airmen, civilian and contractor employees, WPAFB is the largest single site employer in Ohio. The highly specialized workforce provides vital support to ensure Air Force and joint warfighters have modernized systems needed to fly, fight and win.

By virtually any measure, WPAFB is the most diverse and organizationally complex base in the U.S. Air Force. This is where America's Air Force aircraft of tomorrow are conceived, developed, and acquired.

Missions for base units vary from acquisition and logistics management, to research and development, advanced education, heavy airlift flight operations, intelligence, and a vast array of other activities.

WPAFB is the headquarters for Air Force Materiel Command (AFMC), the Air Force Life Cycle Management Center (AFLCMC), the Air Force Research Laboratory (AFRL), the 445th Airlift Wing, the National Air & Space Intelligence Center (NASIC), the Air Force Institute of Technology (AFIT), the National Museum of the United States Air Force, the Enterprise Sourcing Group, and the 88th Air Base Wing which includes the WPAFB Medical Center, Air Force Exchange Services (AAFES), and the WPAFB Commissary. For more information visit the official World Wide Web site for WPAFB at www.wpafb.af.mil.

The purpose of this guide is to provide a quick reference on writing your Federal Resume', Interviewing, and Civilian Developmental Education (CDE) programs.

INTRODUCTION

SPECIAL EMPHASIS PROGRAMS

In September 1965, Executive Order 11246, Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO), established the policy to provide equal opportunity in Federal employment and prohibited discrimination in employment because of race, color, religion, and national origin. It also established the policy to promote a positive, continuing program in each executive department and agency. (Superseded by Executive Order 11478.)

In October 1967, President Lyndon Johnson amended Executive Order 11246 by adding sex to the other prohibited forms of discrimination in his Executive Order 11375. As a result, in November 1967, the Civil Service Commission established the Federal Women's Program (FWP) to enhance the employment and advancement of women.

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA) of 1967 (PL 90-202) prohibits discrimination based on age 40 years or older.

President Nixon's Executive Order 11478, Equal Employment Opportunity in the Federal Government, signed on 8 August 1969, integrated the FWP into the overall EEO program.

In November 1970, the President established the Sixteen-Point Program for Spanish-speaking Americans to assure equal opportunity in Federal employment for Spanish-surnamed Americans. In February 1978, the official title was changed to the Hispanic Employment

Program (HEP).

The Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972 (Public Law 92-261) signed by President Nixon on 24 March 1972 brought Federal employees and agencies under the EEO provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. It also gave the Civil Service Commission additional enforcement powers to insure that all personnel actions in government are free from discrimination. Thus, the EEO program, including the FWP, became not only public policy, but also public law.

Public Law 93-112 established the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 to address the problem of discrimination with respect to the hiring, placement, and advancement of individuals with disabilities.

In 1978, the President's Reorganization Plan No. 1 placed EEO enforcement responsibility for the Federal government under the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

The President's Reorganization Plan No. 2 abolished the Civil Service Commission and established the Merit Systems Protection Board (MSPB) and the Office of Personnel Management (OPM). OPM was given the responsibility to provide government-wide leadership for affirmative employment programs, including the FWP and HEP.

The Civil Rights Act of 1991 which amended Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination in employment based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.

INTRODUCTION

These Executive Orders and laws apply to all Federal employees and provide the statutory basis for the Special Emphasis Programs (SEPs). The Air Force provides for the establishment of the Federal

Department of Defense Directive 1440.1

Department of Defense Directive (DODD) 1440.1, dated May 21, 1987, requires establishment of Special Emphasis Programs. The Directive established the Civilian Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Program, to include affirmative action programs, consistent with guidance from the EEO Commission (EEOC), Office of Personnel Management (OPM), and the DoD Human Goals Charter.

As an integral part of the Civilian EO Program, the following Special Emphasis Programs (SEPs) were established:

- Federal Women's Program (FWP)
- Hispanic Employment Program (HEP)
- Program for People with Disabilities (PPD)
- Asian/Pacific Islander Employment Program (AEP)
- American Indian/Alaskan Native Employment Program (AIEP)
- Black Employment Program (BEP)

In accordance with (IAW) DODD 1440.1, Enclosure 2, the following are definitions for inclusion in one or more of the SEPs:

Women's Program, Hispanic Employment Program, Black Employment Program, Program for People with Disabilities, American Indian/Alaskan Native Employment Program, and the Asian American/Pacific Islander Employment Program.

Hispanic Origin. A person of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American, or of other Spanish culture or origin regardless of race.

People with Disabilities. People who have a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities, have a record of such impairment, or are regarded as having such an impairment.

Asian or Pacific Islander. A person having origin in any of the original peoples of the Far East, Southeast Asia, the Indian subcontinent, or the Pacific Islands. This area includes, for example, China, India, Japan, Korea, the Philippine Islands, and Samoa.

American Indian or Alaskan Native. A person having origins in any of the original peoples of North America, and who maintains cultural identification through tribal affiliation or community recognition.

Black (not of Hispanic Origin). A person having origins in any of the black racial groups of Africa.

INTRODUCTION

Special Emphasis Program Manager's Responsibilities

The responsibilities of the Special Emphasis Program Manager (SEPM) are set forth in Air Force Regulation (AFR) 40-713, Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) and Affirmative Employment Programs (AEP). Specific SEPM objectives include:

- a. Obtain management's support by keeping them aware of program objectives and accomplishments.
- b. Assist in the development of affirmative employment initiatives, in conjunction with SEP initiatives, to address the problems and concerns of underrepresented groups in the work force.
- c. Identify potential or existing problems and artificial and architectural barriers which impede the advancement of minorities, women, and people with disabilities and recommend corrective action.
- d. Assist in the counseling of minorities, women, and people with disabilities about career opportunities and encourage them to participate in self-development and continuing education.
- e. Encourage management to use the Developmental Opportunity Program (DOP) and job restructuring to provide opportunities for employees who are in lower graded, dead-end jobs to progress to their highest potential.
- f. Communicate to management, employees, and community organizations information which will enhance the employment of minorities, women, and people with disabilities.
- g. Develop SEP objectives and a plan to accomplish those objectives, including specific activities and target dates, resources required, and criteria for evaluating program achievements.
- h. Participate in the development of the budget to ensure consideration of SEP objectives.
- i. Publicize the objectives of the program to increase management's awareness of the economic advantages of fully utilizing the talents of all employees.
- j. Ensure that recruitment efforts include sources most likely to produce qualified minority, women, and people with disabilities candidates and actively recruit qualified candidates for career fields where they are underrepresented.
- k. Maintain contacts with minority and women's colleges, universities, groups, clubs, and professional organizations.

The Overall Objective of each SEP is to enhance the employment and advancement of minorities and women by ensuring equal opportunity in every personnel management policy and practice.

INTRODUCTION

Special Emphasis Program Committee Member's Duties & Responsibilities

The SEPM is assisted by SEP Committee Members. At WPAFB the SEP Committees are composed of employees from within the command. Membership on a SEP Committee is voluntary and open to all military and civilian employees. SEP Committee Member's duties and responsibilities include:

- Serves on the SEP committee by management appointment.
- Serves as liaison between management and the committee.
- Attends meetings conducted by the SEPM.
- Identifies problems and concerns of constituents of management and the SEP committee.
- Provides recommendations in the planning, developing and implementing of EEO Affirmative Employment Program goals.
- Establishes and sustains effective formal communication with constituents and managers in the organization to apprise them of EEO programs, policies, training and developmental opportunities, etc.
- Assists in the planning and carrying out of activities initiated or sponsored under the SEP.
- Interfaces with other SEP representatives and supports and promotes EEO programs activities, i.e., ethnic observances.
- Insures management is aware of their involvement in various activities sponsored under the SEP.
- Serves as a member of the organizational EEO committee.

Membership on a SEP Committee provides an opportunity for employees to become involved and make a positive impact at WPAFB. If you are interested in becoming a member of a SEP Committee, contact:

USAJOBS

USAJOBS, www.usajobs.gov, is the Federal Government's official one-stop source for federal jobs and employment information. You will need to create an account to:

- Build and store up to five resumes
- Save and automate job searches
- Save and apply for jobs
- Apply to Federal Agencies

When searching for employment at WPAFB, enter "Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio" in the Location field and click the Search button. You may then refine your search results by: Radius (Miles), Keyword, Salary, Pay Grade, Job Categories, Department and Agency, Work Schedule, Work Type, and Posting Date.

Job Announcements

Your search will result in a list of job descriptions that match the information you provided using the search and/or filters. A job description is a condensed version of the Job Announcement and includes: Position Name, Salary, Series & Grade, Location(s), Open Period, Announcement Number, Department, Agency, Position Information, and Who May Apply.

Series & Grade

The Series & Grade refers to the Federal government's system for categorizing and defining jobs. Occupations in the Federal Government are grouped as professional (General Schedule (GS)) or trade using a four digit number (i.e., GS-0800 identifies a Professional Engineer), the category is then further defined by a Series (i.e. 0855 Electronics

Electronics Engineer, GS-0855-13

Agencies post job announcements on USAJOBS to advertise their current job openings. While these announcements can be lengthy, they include valuable information about the job responsibilities and requirements.

Below, we've highlighted some of the key sections you need to pay attention to, but it's important that you read the entire job announcement before applying:

Summary

The Summary section contains information about the Agency along with a detailed description of WHO MAY APPLY.

Duties

The Duties section describes the job's daily activities and responsibilities.

Key Requirements

Key Requirements can range from type of citizenship to uniform details.

Job Requirements

The Job Requirements section describes the experience, skills and other job related criteria. To be considered for the job, you must meet these qualifications. It's important you read this entire section, because some job announcements include many qualifications.

How to Apply

Again, it is very important you read the How to Apply instructions, located on the right side of the job announcement (click the '+' to expand). The How to Apply instructions outline the upcoming application steps and the multiple ways to apply for the job announcement. Underneath the How to Apply section are details on how the agency will evaluate your application. A link to a preview of the assessment questions is available at the bottom of the How You Will Be Evaluated section. If you plan on applying to the job announcement, review the vacancy questions before starting your application.

Required Documents

Lastly, it is very important you read the Required Documents section, located on the right side of the job announcement (click the '+' to expand). This section lists all the documents you may need to include with your application to prove you're eligible and qualified. Please note that not all documents listed may be required dependent on your eligibility and qualifications. If you don't submit the required documentation, you may be disqualified.

Now that we have covered the basic items in a Job Announcement, we will show you how you can relate it to your resume'.

YOUR FEDERAL RESUME'

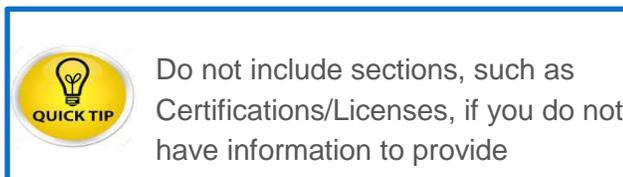

Your resume' is the best marketing tool you have! It communicates your qualifications to the Human Resources (HR) specialist and the hiring official in your absence. Tailoring your resume' helps you to match your competencies, knowledge, skills, abilities, and experience to each of a position's requirements.

When written effectively, your resume' will show that you are qualified and capable of performing at the grade level required for the position.

Format

The Federal government does not limit your resume' to a certain number of pages; however, you want to ensure that you are explaining your most relevant jobs/experience and not giving a lot of details on jobs that do not show the expertise required for the position. Listed below are the key sections we recommend for your Federal Resume':

1. Contact Information
2. Professional Objective
3. Personal Information
4. Summary of Qualifications
5. Certifications/Licenses
6. Work Experience

FEDERAL RESUME' WRITING

7. Education
8. Training
9. Additional Information

Contact Information

Your contact information should be placed at the top of the first page of your resume'. You may either center or left justify this information. At a minimum, your contact information should include your name, address, city, state, zip code, phone number(s), and email address. Recommended font settings include:

- Font: Times New Roman, Arial, or Calibri;
- Font Style: Bold;
- Font size: 12.

Professional Objective

Your professional objective should identify your current job title or the title of a position you are pursuing. When applying for a Federal job, tailor your professional objective to match the Position Name, Series & Grade, and Job Announcement Number.

Using the Job Announcement information shown here, Anita's professional objective would look like this:

Electronics Engineer, GS-0855-13
WHO MAY APPLY: Click here for more information. You MUST have one of the following eligibilities selection Air Force Employee (Current, Permanent)
Salary:	$86,031.00 - $111,845.00 / Per Year
Series & Grade:	GS-0800/0855-13/13
Location(s):	Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio
Open Period:	5/4/2016 to 5/17/2016
Announcement Number:	AFMC-1697194-633121-9X-TLB

Professional Objective:

Electronics Engineer, GS-0855-13, Job Announcement #: AFMC-1697194-633121-9X-TLB

Personal Information

The USAJOB's job description and announcement will identify who may apply for an advertised position. You will save the HR Specialist time by self-identifying personal information such as country of citizenship, veteran/reinstatement status, and civil service status. (NOTE: If you are a Veteran you may qualify to have preference points added to the scoring of your resume' (See Resume' Scoring)).

If Anita is a Veteran with no prior civil service, her personal information would look like this:

Personal Information:

Country of Citizenship: United States of America
Veteran Status: 10-point Veteran (See attached SF-15)
Reinstatement Status: Not eligible
Civil Service Status: No prior civil service appointment

FEDERAL RESUME' WRITING

If Anita is a GS-12 employee with no Veteran status, her information would look like this:

Personal Information:

Country of Citizenship: United States of America

Civil Service Status: GS-0855-12

Summary of Qualifications

Using a bullet list, summarize your knowledge, skills, and expertise. Be sure to focus on the specific skills, qualifications, and achievements of your career. When tailoring your resume', concentrate on the Job Requirements from the Job Announcement and list all of the requirements you meet in this section.

Write in plain language and avoid using acronyms

Certifications/Licenses

Using a bullet list, list all certifications and licenses that are relevant to your work experience and the position you are applying for.

Work Experience

Your work experience is where you highlight the major duties and responsibilities you have had in paid and unpaid jobs. Details here are critical to building a picture of your amount and level of experience.

It is important to show the amount of experience that you hold in response to the qualifications and specialized experience required. Identifying the number of years helps to build a picture of the amount of experience that you bring to the table.

- “Managed an eight person team over 10 years...”

Expressing the level of experience helps the HR specialist or hiring official understand at what level you are capable of working. If you were in charge of a team or project, make sure you differentiate between being a team member and managing the project or team.

- “Routinely advised and briefed organizational senior executives on...”

You may have had similar experiences across a variety of different jobs which may result in some repetition. This is okay so long as you keep it meaningful and relevant to the picture you are trying to portray.

FEDERAL RESUME' WRITING

Use reverse chronological order. List your most recent experience first then work backwards listing previous jobs:

- Include job-relevant paid/unpaid experience;
- Include position name, organization/agency name, and location;
- Show work experience as: Month/Day/Year to Month/Day/Year;
- Include Grade/Equivalent Grade level;
- Include hours worked per week;
- Include contact information for supervisor;
- In narrative form, provide a paragraph describing each major duty and accomplishments;
- Include a bullet list of additional key accomplishments as a result of your work performance.

Just because a paycheck didn't come with the job, doesn't mean that it isn't relevant. Be sure to include volunteer experience, internships, and co-ops.

When tailoring your resume', us the 3-step process below using the Duties, Job Requirements, and Occupational Questionnaire.

1. Review – Understand the Duties, Job Requirements and Occupational Questionnaire;
2. Identify – Find key words and phrases that match your experience and highlight them. Focus on the actual competencies, knowledge, skills/abilities for the position;
3. Align – Make adjustments to your resume' to capture additional/missing information. Add accomplishments that go along with your experience. Accomplishments tell: Who was impacted? How significant was the impact? What were the cost savings? Did you exceed deadlines? Did you receive awards or recognition? What changed/improved? You want to show that you can not only do the tasks, but that you can do them well.

Experience Only	Experience with Accomplishments
Responsible for planning, executing and coordinating special operations mountain and desert training. Served as primary instructor for all new Soldiers in training.	Developed and executed numerous sensitive and realistic training courses for nearly 1,500 personnel annually. Rated as the number one instructor over 20 peers on last 3 annual performance reports.

FEDERAL RESUME' WRITING

Education

If you have minimal or some education beyond high school, emphasize coursework completed towards a degree. Include your degree with anticipated graduation date if applicable (MM/YYYY), college/university name and location, grade point average (GPA), credits earned, major, honors, and relevant coursework and/or major papers.

Education:

Bachelor of Science Degree

Anticipated 05/2017

University of Dayton

Dayton, Ohio

GPA: 3.65 of a maximum 4.0 Credits Earned: 120 Semester Hours

Major: Electrical Engineering Honors: Magna cum Laude

Relevant Coursework: Calculus I/II, Advanced Circuits, Physics, and Engineering.

If you have an undergraduate/graduate degree, include your degree, honors (if applicable), and graduation date (MM/YYYY), college/university name and location, major, and significant papers/publications.

Training

Review and keep courses that are relevant to the position you are applying for; be sure to remove all non-relevant courses. Using a bulleted list, provide your training information.

Additional Information

More often than not, applicants do not like to take credit for things they are not paid for. This is still experience. Remember to take the credit for what you did by highlighting volunteer work and hobbies that showcase your leadership and present you as a well-rounded candidate. For example, include leadership roles in social/professional organizations, volunteer experiences, projects, and relevant travel experiences.

IMPORTANT!

With a maximum of 100 points possible, your resume' will be scored based on the areas of relevant experience, diversity of experience, college education, professional military education, supervisory experience, and leadership experience. Resume' scoring matrices provide a standardized method for evaluating your aptitude for a position. To learn more about how your resume' will be scored, contact the Agency listed at the bottom of the Job Announcement.

INTERVIEWING

Interviewing

Selecting the best qualified candidates who fit both the job and the organization ensures that the Air Force continues to provide the support to the warfighters.

PREPARING FOR AN INTERVIEW

Interviewers will ask questions targeted at the behaviors or qualifications you need to be successful in the job. The following steps will help you prepare to answer these questions.

1. Determine and list the competencies that the interviewer might be looking for by reviewing the Duties and Job Requirements listed in the job announcement.
2. Compare the competencies in the Occupational Questionnaire to your past job history or personal experiences and list examples of how you have previously demonstrated those competencies.
3. Prepare a story with a beginning, middle, and end.
4. Outline some examples, or stories, to show how you demonstrated the competencies in the past.
 - Think not only of examples with positive outcomes, but those with negative outcomes as well. Interviewers may ask you about situations that you could not resolve favorably and what you learned from those experiences.
 - Using the below STAR format will help you provide the specifics the interviewer needs to fully assess your level of experience.
5. Practice telling your stories. For each example you identified, describe what problem occurred, who was involved, what you did to help resolve it, and what the outcome was.

THE STAR FORMAT

- S – Situation Describe a specific situation that addresses the question.
- T – Task Describe the tasks associated with the situation.
- A – Action Describe the actions you took to address the situation.
- R – Result Describe the outcome of your action.

EXAMPLE QUESTIONS

A typical interview will consist of four questions selected from the following competencies:

- Job experience / Technical knowledge
- Leadership / Supervisory experience
- Leading people (professional / workforce development)
- Business acumen (managing human, financial and information resources)

INTERVIEWING

- Building coalitions (internally and externally)
- Leading change (strategic change within and outside the organization)
- Results driven (ability to meet organizational goals and customer expectations)

Example questions may resemble:

- What are your long-range and short-range goals and objectives; when and why did you establish these goals, and how are you preparing yourself to achieve them?
- What are the most important rewards you expect in your career?
- What qualifications do you have that make you think you will be successful in this position?
- What two or three accomplishments have given you the most satisfaction? Why?
- Give an example of a time when you worked under deadline pressure
- Give an example of a situation in which you provided a solution to an employer
- What major problem have you encountered, and how did you deal with it?
- Technical question from your field of study
- Describe your communication skills and experiences (both written and verbal) that have prepared you for this position. Be sure to describe the types and level of briefings you have given
- Tell us about yourself
 - What they're really asking: What makes you special? Why should we hire you?
 - Tips: Prepare several selling points about yourself. Give a quick "elevator speech" that overviews your experience and achievements
- What are your greatest strengths?
 - What they're really asking: How do you perceive your talents and abilities as a professional? Will you be an asset to our organization?
 - Tips: Sell yourself. If you don't promote your strengths, nobody else will. Prepare six or seven responses. Be "confidently humble"
- What are your greatest weaknesses?
 - What they're really asking: How honest are you being about yourself with us? How realistic are you?
 - Tips: Present your weakness as a positive. Don't talk too long or emphasize your downfalls
- Why should we hire you?
 - What they're really asking: Can you convince us you're "the one?" Can you sell your "product?"
 - Tips: Make a powerful statement about the value you'll bring to their organization

CIVILIAN DEVELOPMENTAL EDUCATION

Civilian Developmental Education

CIVILIAN LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT CONTINUUM

Civilian leaders exist across all occupations and organizational levels throughout the Air Force. Continuously developing current and future leaders is critical to achieving the Air Force mission. This requires civilians to continuously perform in their job and to develop occupational skills, but more importantly institutional competencies, which serve as the building blocks for developing leaders. The Civilian Leadership Development Continuum guides institutional competency development. The continuum:

- Provides a roadmap for development through education, training, and experiential opportunities,
- Links three development levels (Tactical Expertise, Operational Competence, and Strategic Vision) to institutional competencies and the foundational and targeted programs used to develop leaders
- Clarifies what the Air Force values in leadership development for civilians, - Establishes requirements and expectations,
- Synchronizes civilian institutional leadership development programs, and Allocates resources.

CIVILIAN DEVELOPMENTAL EDUCATION

Civilian development is a personal choice for all civilians depending on their desire to seek increased leadership opportunities. Programs on the continuum are situated based on development level expectations and are categorized as foundational and targeted development. Your development level focus is based on your position, career group or grade, and experience.

The Air Force expects all civilian leaders, no matter the development level focus, to complete foundational development at the appropriate time and level.

- Complete mandatory Air Force New Employee Orientation course (at ADLS), a computer-based training that provides civilians with basic Air Force knowledge, heritage, core competencies, customs, courtesies, and core values.
- Continuously work with supervisors to utilize self-development tools, including computer-based training.
- Complete non-residence Professional Military Education (PME) -- Squadron Officers School, Air Command and Staff College, and Air War College -- at the appropriate level.

CIVILIAN DEVELOPMENTAL EDUCATION OPPORTUNITIES

Targeted civilian developmental education (CDE) includes various leadership opportunities that deliver focused institutional competencies and skills. These opportunities have varying degrees of eligibility, requirements, and expectations. The Air Force expects you to work with your supervisor to map out your development path along the continuum.

CDE Programs by Level / Requirements / Selection Authority

Review the table below to help plan your development.
