

Dear Guests,

We extend to you a very warm welcome to Wright-Patterson Inns. Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and the surrounding community are proud to be the birthplace of aviation and continues to be a leader in aeronautical, and astronautical engineering innovations. The area has a perfect balance of history and culture with a modern-day flair.

We are delighted with the opportunity to have you as our guest. If there is anything we can do for you, please do not hesitate to contact me or the guest services desk.

We hope you have a memorable and productive stay with us.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Janelle Bailey". The signature is written in a cursive, flowing style.

Janelle Bailey
Lodging Manager

General Information

ATM Locations:

- * The Club - Inside main lobby
- * Hospital - Inside atrium
- * Wright-Patterson Credit Union- Area A by commissary

Energy Conservation:

- * The federal government is the largest energy user in the United States, and it has led the way in energy conservation. We would like you to join us in our efforts to continue doing our part in keeping our world a beautiful place to live.
- * Please turn off lights and televisions when leaving your guest room.
- * Open curtains for natural light.
- * Lower/raise room temperature when leaving your guest room.

We have also implemented the "Protect our Planet" program. All of the water and detergents used to wash hotel towels and linens each day puts a heavy burden on our environment. To help reduce this burden we are giving you the option of reusing your towels. If you would like to reuse your towels simply place them on the towel rack or over the shower. If you would like new towels, place your towels on the bathroom floor and they will be replaced. Thank you for joining us in our efforts to save our environment.

Guest Responsibilities:

- * Guests not traveling on official government orders are required to pay in advance for room charges. All guests traveling on official government orders must present a credit card at check in or advance payment for the entire stay is required. In addition, all guests are required to make payment on their account every 15 days. For your convenience, credit card payments can be made over the phone by calling the guest services desk by dialing "0".
- * During your stay in lodging, guests are responsible for their conduct and that of any guests, and/or family members.
- * Please observe the quiet hours of 2200-0700. * Please comply with fire, health and safety regulations. Please take a moment to look over the Emergency and Security tips in this book.
- * Smoking is not permitted inside any lodging facility or within 50 feet of building entrances. Designated smoking areas are marked outside of each facility.

General Information

Lodging Fees/Service Charges:

* Per AFMAN34-135 guests may be charged up to a $150.00 fee based on expenses incurred to return a guest room back to available inventory for violating the no-smoking policy.

* Guest that are not staying in a designated pet friendly TLF unit may be charged up to a $150.00 fee based on expenses incurred to return the room to available inventory for violating the no-pet policy. Guests staying in a pet friendly TLF unit will be charged an additional daily fee of $10.00.

* Per AFMAN34-135 occupants will reimburse lodging for damage beyond fair wear and tear, and for missing government property caused by abuse or negligence on their part or by their guests.

Space Heaters Burning Candles Electric Skillets Single Burners
George Foreman Grills Incense Burners Toaster Ovens

Please Note: Crock Pots and Instant Pots are approved for personal use in the rooms. The fire department guidance states: you can have the appliance on high for 4 hours, and low for 8 hours; do not exceed time limitations. Guest must be present in the room while using this appliance.

Emergency & Security

Emergency Phone Number

(937) 257-9111

A very important part of our safety program is to make sure that you know what to do in case of an emergency. Upon your arrival, please take the time to look for the emergency exits on your floor. Exits are shown on the floor plans on the back of your guest room door.

If you are calling 911 on a mobile phone please have them connect you to Wright-Patterson AFB emergency services.

Emergency Procedures:

Fire Safety - Lodging is equipped with a fire emergency system which includes a sprinkler system and smoke detectors in all guest rooms and hallways. Please adhere to the following procedures during fire emergency:

Exiting Lodging

- * Take your key
- * Test your door for heat or smoke before opening it
- * If the hallway is clear, exit by the nearest stairwell
- * NEVER use the elevators during a Fire Emergency

If your door feels warm or impassable

- * Place wet towels at the base of the door
- * Press "0" giving your name and room number
- * Turn off your air conditioner or heater to keep smoke from entering the room
- * Get down on the floor to avoid inhaling smoke

Tornado Procedures - During a weather watch /warning please note that all lodging facilities are located in Greene County, Ohio. An on-base warning is declared by a wavering siren and the "all clear" is a solid siren. Please note the following shelters for the building that you are located in:

Building 825 - The basement area of the building

Building 826 - The basement area of the building

Buildings 832, 833, 834, 835 & 836 - The bathroom of your guest room

Taylor House - The first floor bathroom

TLF Units - The bathroom of your guest room

Emergency & Security

Safety tips for travelers -

It is very important to us that you have a pleasant and safe stay. The following are a few tips to help ensure your safety and security while you are traveling.

Inside your guest room:

- * Lock your door using all locking devices when you are in your room, and always use the peephole to identify visitors.
- * Before opening your room door ask for identification. If you are uncertain about anyone that comes to your door, dial "0" on the telephone.
- * Check to make sure any sliding doors or windows are locked.

Outside of the hotel:

- * Be observant and look carefully before entering parking lots.
- * If you are traveling in a vehicle, don't leave any valuables within view.
- * If you hear or see any suspicious activity around lodging, please notify a staff member immediately.

Safe Instructions

Using Personal Code:

1. To lock the safe: Enter any three to six digit code then press the “#” key. The word “CLOSED” appears and the safe will be locked.
2. To unlock the safe: Enter the three to six digit code that you used to lock the safe with. The word “OPENED” appears and the safe will be unlocked.

* This is a standard hotel room configuration lock. User sets new code every time the safe is used (The code you use to lock the safe is the code you will use to unlock the safe. Once the safe is in the unlocked position, the safe will reset itself ready for any code).

* The “” button can be used as a deletion key to delete numbers that appear on the screen. If “” is entered before your code, a “-----“ will appear, rather than the number.

Using a Credit Card (Card with a Magnetic Strip):

1. To lock the safe: Slide your card firmly from right to left with the magnetic strip down. The word “CLOSED” appears and the safe will be locked.
2. To unlock the safe: Slide your credit card firmly from right to left with the magnetic strip down. The word “OPENED” appears and the safe will be unlocked.

This is a standard hotel room configuration lock. User sets new card every time the safe is used (The card you use to lock the safe is the card you will use to unlock the safe. Once the safe is in the unlocked position, the safe will reset itself ready for any card).

* IMPORTANT: Swipe the card firmly and evenly from right to left. If an incorrect direction is swiped or the swiping speed is too fast or too slow, the display will show “ERROR” or “AGAIN”. The card to unlock safe should be the same as the card to lock the safe. If not, the safe will show “E-CARD” (Error Card).

Internet Connection

WIRELESS HIGH SPEED INTERNET ACCESS (HSIA) INSTRUCTIONS:

If you have an external antenna, you have a wireless router in your room.

1. Turn on your computer. It may take a few minutes for your computer to detect the wireless network.
2. Connect to midatlanticbb.

TROUBLESHOOTING STEPS:

VPN Service: For any issues concerning VPN Service, please contact Help Desk Support at 866-435-7548.

Press option 1 for Hospitality Service, and option 1 for Internet Service.

Wireless Internet Service: If your computer does not find your wireless service, go through the following steps:

1. Verify that your wireless card is on. Some laptops have switches that will turn wireless service on or off. Make sure it is on. Try to connect to midatlanticbb.
2. If you still can't access the wireless network, please contact Help Desk Support at 866-435-7548. Press option 1 for Hospitality Service, and option 1 for Internet Service.

If you have found a wireless connection, but you are unable to access the Internet, go through the following steps for your specific operating system:

Windows XP (by command line):

- Open a command window. Go to Start, Run, and enter "cmd". The Command Prompt should appear.
- Type the commands:
ipconfig /release
ipconfig /renew
- Type the command exit to close the command window.

Windows Vista (by command line):

- Open a command window. Enter "cmd" in the Search Box under the Vista Start menu and then press Ctrl + Shift + Enter to launch the tool with administrative privileges. Then say "I do" to the UAC prompt.
- Type the commands:
ipconfig /release
ipconfig /renew

Type the command exit to close the command window

Apple Mac OS X (by command line):

- Ensure that you know the password of an Administrator for the system.
- Open a Terminal command window.
- Type the commands:
sudo ipconfig set en0 BOOTP

sudo ipconfig set en0 DHCP where en0 is the interface connecting to the cable modem. These commands are case-sensitive and must be typed as shown. When prompted, quote an Administrator's password.

- Close the Terminal window.

IP Addresses: This service only supports the use of dynamically assigned IP Addresses. Your computer must be configured to obtain an IP Address automatically.

When you connect to the cable network, your PC/Mac is automatically issued with a unique IP address by means of DHCP (Dynamic Host Configuration Protocol). The public IP address allocated by DHCP for the cable connection is called the WAN address. If your PC/Mac is connected directly to the cable modem, with no intervening routers, then its IP address will be the WAN address.

- Windows XP: Under Network Connections, highlight Internet Protocol (TCP/IP). Click on Properties, then obtain an IP Address automatically and obtain a DNS server address automatically.

- Windows Vista: When your computer cannot connect to a network and the DHCP client fails to reach the DHCP server, Windows Vista will not show the dynamic IP address but switch to Automatic Private IP Addressing (APIPA) instead. This means that your IP address will be something like 169.254.a.b. If this is the case, you need to disable automatic addressing and restart your computer by doing the following:

Click Start > Run. Type regedit and press OK. Browse to

HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SYSTEM\CurrentControlSet\Services\Tcpip\Parameters

Right click this entry and select New Dword. Rename the new entry ArpRetryCount (leave it set to 0 by default). Restart the computer.

You can discover the (LAN) IP address of your PC/Mac as follows:

- Win9x/ME: click Start, Run, enter the command winipcfg. Use the pull-down item to select the network interface for the cable modem (rather than any PPP dial-up). Look for the line IP Address.

- Windows (any version except Win95): Open a command prompt window, type the command ipconfig. Look for the output section related to the network interface for the cable modem.

- Windows XP: Open a command window. Go to Start, Run, and enter "cmd". The Command Prompt should appear. Type ipconfig. This should show the computer IP Address, Subnet Mask and Default Gateway.

- Windows Vista: Open a command window. Enter "cmd" in the Search Box under the Vista Start menu and then press Ctrl + Shift + Enter to launch the tool with administrative privileges. Then say "I do" to the UAC prompt. Type ipconfig. This should show the computer IP Address, Subnet Mask and Default Gateway.

- Apple Mac OS 8.x/9.x: Pull down the Apple menu, select Control Panels. Open the control panel TCP/IP. Look for the line IP address.

Consolidated Hobby Complex & Automotive Shop

(937) 257-7025

The Consolidated Skills Center provides active-duty military, retirees, DOD civilians, and dependents with the opportunity to develop and refine their creative skills. This center offers woodworking, engraving, laser engraving, frame and matting, silk screening, computer graphics and a wide variety of going away gifts. Professional classes are offered in wood working. An expert staff assists patrons with difficult do-it-yourself projects. Custom work is also available to meet your needs.

In today's fix-it-yourself world, it is not surprising to find that the Automotive Shop, now located inside the Consolidated Hobby Complex, is a very busy place. The shop is completely equipped to handle most do-it-yourself car repairs. A knowledgeable staff is available to answer questions and assist patrons. The shop is fully equipped to make your vehicle repairs easier. Shop services are on a first come, first serve basis to all active duty and retired military and their family members. Services are also available to civilian employees. Two stalls will be available for base civilian employees on a first come, first served basis. More stalls may be used by civilians if business is slow. You can stop by during normal Automotive Shop hours and check it out or give them a call for further details. The Consolidated Skills Center is located in building 1227 Kittyhawk Area in Area A.

Veterinary Clinic

(937) 257-6853

The U.S. Army Veterinary Clinic provides care for all U.S. Forces, retirees and their dependents. Services are provided for privately owned animals on a time available basis and include a wide range of care, such as immunizations and general sick call. Services are not provided in the areas of breeding or surgery. All services are provided on an appointment basis. Appointments for vaccination clinics and sick animal clinics can be booked by calling the Veterinary Clinic receptionists. After hours emergency services are not provided. In the event of an emergency you must contact an off-base veterinary clinic. For safety reasons, we do not encourage attendance of children under the age of 12 during clinic days. For the safety of our customers and other animals, please ensure all animals are either on a leash or in a carrier at all times. Veterinary services are authorized for animals owned by persons authorized routine DOD medical care. This does not apply to those animals maintained for commercial purposes for sale or profit. Because the Veterinary Services operates as a Non-Appropriated Fund Instrumentality, charges are made for all products received and services rendered at time of visit. A $2.00 user fee is added to each cash register transaction. This user fee is mandated by Congress and deposited into the U.S. Treasury. Due to the frequent changes in requirements, we encourage you to call the veterinary treatment facility as soon as you know your PCS location, so that we can advise you on current protocols. The Veterinary Clinic is located in building 1435, Area A. Hours: Monday-Thursday 0800-1200 and 1300-1600, Friday 0800-1200 and 1300-1500. Closed on holidays

Area Attractions

Welcome to the tri-county area. There is so much to see in and around Dayton.

History:

Dunbar House - Born in 1872, Paul Laurence Dunbar, the son of two former slaves, was born in Dayton, Ohio. Dunbar was steeped in the oral tradition during his formative years and would go on to become a powerful interpreter of the African American folk experience in literature and song; he would also champion the cause of civil rights and higher education for African American essays and poetry that were militant by the standards of his day. There is a fee for admission.

Wright Cycle Company - A visit to Dayton is not complete without touring the actual site where Wilbur and Orville Wright developed their ideas that led to the invention of powered flight.

This has been designated a National Historic Landmark and a part of Dayton Aviation Heritage National Historical Park, operated by the National Park Service. Admission: Free

22 South Williams, St. Dayton, OH. 45402 Phone: (937) 225-7705

Wright Memorial and Huffman Prairie Flying Field - A Memorial dedicated to the Wright brothers overlooks Huffman Prairie Flying Field. The flying field is the spot where Wilbur and Orville Wright perfected the airplane and created the world's first airport. As of December 17, 2002, the National Park Service opened a visitor center on Wright Hill opposite the Wright Memorial. The center provides an overview of the Wright brothers at Huffman Prairie Flying Field and explores their legacy as embodied in Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. Admission: Free

Parks/Outdoor Recreation:

Carillon Historical Park - This 65-acre park and museum hosts historic buildings and technology illustrating the history of Dayton and its citizens from 1796 to the present. The historical elements of the park were the brainchild of Colonel Edward Deeds. The park is named for the 151-foot tall Deeds Carillon. The Art modern-style Carillon Tower was built in 1942 funded by his wife Edith Walton Deeds and was designed to commemorate the Deeds family. When the tower was built, each of 23 bells was inscribed with the name of a family member, with the "silent" bells bearing the names of deceased family members and ringing bells cast with the names of family members then living. Today, with 57 bells, the carillon is Ohio's largest. There is a fee for admission. 1000 Carillon Blvd., Dayton, OH. 45409 Phone (937) 293-2841 www.daytonhistory.org

Cox Arboretum MetroPark - A 170-acre facility with a wide variety of plants, a butterfly house and nine specialty gardens. The grounds of the Arboretum are easy to walk and offer 1.5 miles of trails through woodlands and meadow openings. Admission: Free 6733 Springboro Pike, Dayton, OH. 45449 Phone (937) 434-9005

Aullwood Audubon Center and Farm - Operated by the National Audubon Society, this center is a wildlife sanctuary and nature educational facility. See all forms of farm life and animals in their natural surroundings. Hiking trails are well marked to identify the surroundings. There is a fee for admission. 1000 Aullwood Rd., Dayton, OH. 45414 Phone (937) 890-7360 www.audubon.org/local/sanctuary/aullwood/index.html

Carriage Hill MetroPark - This large MetroPark (nearly 1,000 acres) was developed from farmland many years ago. The woodlots, meadows, and fields attract many of southwest Ohio's common breeding birds. The main feature of this MetroPark is the working historical farm, maintained and operated as it was in the 1880's. Farming activities and household chores are still performed as they were at that time. The park staff and volunteers demonstrate these century-old techniques according to the season of the year. In addition to the historic Daniel Arnold House built in 1836, the farm buildings include a bank barn complete with live animals, a blacksmith shop and other buildings typical of the period. Nearly five miles of trails are available for easy walking/hiking through scenic meadows, woodlands, and around the lake and pond. There is a fee for admission. 7860 E. Shull Road, Dayton, OH. 45424 Phone (937) 879-0461 www.dayton.net/Audubon/carghl.htm

Uber/Lyft/Commercial Taxi Service:

Uber and outside taxi services are available to pick up on base. You will need to schedule the pick-up in advance by acquiring the drivers name and make/model of the vehicle. You will then need to contact base security, to let them know to expect An Uber/Lyft/Taxi and supply them with the information. This can be done by calling (937) 257-6516.

Flight Crew Transportation:

Base Operations provides transportation between the flight line and quarters 24-hours a day by calling (937) 257-2131 or (937) 257-3686.

Airport Transportation:

The Charter Vans, Inc. provides van service between the base and Dayton International Airport. Trips operate on an on-call basis. There is a charge for this service. Additional information may be obtained by calling (937) 898-4043.

The History of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base

Wright-Patterson's history as a military installation dates from World War I. Its aviation history, however, began in 1904-1905 when Wilbur and Orville Wright used an 84-acre plot of land, known as the Huffman Prairie Flying Field, for their experimental test flights. Here the Wright Brothers solved the final secrets of aerodynamics, learned to fly, and developed the first truly practical airplane-their 1905 Flyer. They returned to the Huffman Prairie Flying Field in 1910 to operate a pilot training school-The Wright Company School of Aviation-and a flight exhibition company. When their operations ended in 1916, aviation had become a reality and a rich tradition of invention, operations, and education had been established on this sacred soil. The Huffman Prairie Flying Field was officially designated a National Historic Landmark in 1990 and became part of the newly created Dayton Aviation Heritage National Historical Park two years later.

When the United States entered World War I in 1917, three military installations were established in the Dayton area. Two of these would become part of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. The third was located near downtown Dayton. Their original missions-logistics, research and development, and military education-are the same missions that have been performed at Wright-Patterson to this day.

Wilbur Wright Field and the Fairfield Aviation General Supply Depot were adjacent installations located at what is today Area A of the base. Wilbur Wright Field was situated on a 2,075-acre tract of land adjacent to the Mad River that was leased to the Army by the Miami Conservancy District. The lease included the Huffman Prairie Flying Field. A Signal Corps Aviation School was established at the new airfield and began operations in June 1917 as a training school for pilots. The field also housed an aviation mechanic's school and a school for armorers.

The Fairfield Aviation General Supply Depot was constructed on forty acres of land purchased by the Army from the Miami Conservancy District. The land bordered Wilbur Wright Field. The depot provided logistics support to Wilbur Wright Field and three other Signal Corps aviation schools located in the Midwest. Each day the depot received, stored, and issued equipment and supplies to Signal Corps aviation schools in the region.

The third World War I military installation was McCook Field. This 254-acre complex located just north of downtown Dayton between Keowee Street and the Great Miami River. It was named for the Fighting McCook family of Civil War fame who once owned part of the land. McCook Field was the temporary home of the U.S. Army Signal Corps' Airplane Engineering Division. As an engineering and research facility, McCook Field has been described as "the single most influential agency in the early years of American air power." McCook's engineers and technicians researched, developed, manufactured, tested, and evaluated military aircraft and all of their associated components and equipment.

Cooperation between the two geographically separated flying fields began in 1918 when Wilbur

Wright Field agreed to let McCook Field use hangar and shop space as well as its enlisted mechanics to assemble and maintain airplanes and engines. Wilbur Wright Field's expansive and relatively isolated open flying field also proved ideal for testing the Air Service's experimental aircraft and the larger, more powerful models developed during the 1920s.

Following World War I, the training school at Wilbur Wright Field was discontinued. Wilbur Wright Field and the depot soon merged to form the Fairfield Air Depot. The depot remained active until 1946.

McCook Field remained in operation until 1927. The field's limited size could not accommodate the larger, more sophisticated aircraft that quickly emerged after World War I. The warning- "This Field is Small, Use It All!"-was painted atop the airfield's hangars. When the Air Corps announced its intention to close McCook Field, local businessmen and citizens protested. The field offered a stable and expanding economic base for the community, and was also a great source of pride to the city that considered itself the birthplace of aviation. Under the leadership of the Patterson family (who had founded The National Cash Register Company), prominent citizens formed the Dayton Air Service Committee, Inc. This organization mounted a massive public campaign that raised $425,000 in two days. It used the money to purchase 4,520.47 acres of land northeast of Dayton, including Wilbur Wright Field and the Huffman Prairie Flying Field. In 1924, the Committee presented the deeds to President Calvin Coolidge for the construction of a new aviation engineering center. The entire acreage (including the Fairfield Air Depot) was designated Wright Field in honor of both Wright brothers.

Between 1925 and 1927, modern new facilities were built on the portion of Wright Field west of Huffman Dam to house all of the functions being relocated from old McCook Field. Orville Wright raised the flag over the new engineering center at the official dedication ceremony on October 12, 1927. The name "Wright Field" soon became synonymous with developments in the field of aeronautical engineering, a reputation that Wright-Patterson retains to the present day. This new portion of Wright Field became the headquarters of the Materiel Division, the main branch of the Army Air Corps responsible for developing advanced aircraft, equipment, and accessories. The Division also procured and provided maintenance for all of these systems and was charged with managing the extensive Air Corps depot system.

Wright Field incorporated the entire installation. Many citizens in the local community, however, believed that part of the field should honor the Patterson family in some way as recognition for their leadership in keeping the engineering center in Dayton. This happened on July 1, 1931, when the portion of Wright Field east of Huffman Dam was pre-designated "Patterson Field" in honor of Lieutenant Frank Stuart Patterson.

Frank Stuart Patterson, born in Dayton, Ohio, on November 6, 1897, was the son of Frank Jefferson Patterson and Julia Shaw Patterson. The elder Patterson and his brother, John H. Patterson, founded The National Cash Register Company and figured prominently in local Dayton history. Frank Stuart attended Yale University, but graduated "in absentia" in the spring of 1918 because he, like many of his fellow classmates, had joined the Army. He enlisted in May 1917 and was commissioned in September as a first lieutenant in the Officers Reserve Corps with the aeronautical rating of pilot. Lieutenant Patterson was assigned to the 137th Aero Squadron as a test pilot at Wilbur Wright Field the following May. On June 19, 1918, little more than a month after his arrival, Lieutenant Patterson and his aerial observer, Lieutenant LeRoy Amos Swan, went aloft in their DH-4 to test newly installed machine guns synchronizers. They completed two trials successfully, but during a steep dive on the third test the airplane's wings collapsed and the aircraft crashed, killing both crewmen.

Patterson Field consisted of the land known today as Area A of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. It included the Fairfield Air Depot and the Huffman Prairie Flying Field. Patterson Field soon became the Army's center for aviation logistics, maintenance, and supply. Although Wright Field and Patterson Field were now two separate installations, their missions continued to be closely intertwined.

Both fields experienced dramatic expansion during World War II, in terms of real estate as well as structures. Employment at the fields jumped from approximately 3,700 in December 1939 to over 50,000 at the war's peak. Wright Field grew from a modest installation with approximately 30 buildings to a 2,064-acre facility with some 300 buildings and the Air Corps' first modern paved runways. The original part of the field became saturated with office and laboratory buildings and test facilities. The Hilltop area was acquired from private landowners in 1943-1944 to provide housing and services for the thousands of troops assigned to Wright Field.

The outbreak of World War II provided a crucial test for the Materiel Division. Since 1926 the Division had managed its experimental, engineering, and procurement functions with limited peacetime appropriations. Changes were required within the Division to accommodate the massive wartime Air Corps expansion program. The functions of the Division were ultimately broken into two separate commands, the Materiel Command and the Air Service Command. The Materiel Command, headquartered at Wright Field, was responsible for the procurement of airplanes and equipment in production quantities and for sustaining an accelerated program of testing and development. The Air Service Command, located on Patterson Field, assumed responsibility for all logistics functions, including maintenance and supply.

The separation of these functions soon proved cumbersome and confusing. The Army Air Forces addressed this problem in August 1944 when it inactivated the two commands and reunited their functions in the newly established Air Technical Service Command. This action made Wright Field subordinate to the new headquarters at Patterson Field and had a psychologically divisive effect on the installation. To solve the problem, the portion of Patterson Field from Huffman Dam through the Brick Quarters (including the command headquarters in Building 10262) was reassigned from Patterson Field to Wright Field. To avoid confusing the two areas of Wright Field, the former Patterson Field portion was designated "Area A" of Wright Field and the original Wright Field became "Area B".

Patterson Field likewise saw the growth of hundreds of barracks and their supporting mess halls, chapels, hospital facilities, clubs, and recreational facilities. Two densely populated housing and service areas across Highway 444, Wood City and Skyway Park, were geographically separated from the central core of Patterson Field and developed almost self-sufficient community status. (Wood City was acquired in 1924 as part of the original donation of land to the government but was used primarily as just a radio range until World War II. Skyway Park was acquired in 1943.) They supported the vast numbers of recruits who enlisted and were trained at the two fields as well as thousands of civilian laborers, especially single women recruited to work at the depot. Skyway Park was demolished after the war. Wood City was eventually transformed into Kittyhawk Center, the base's modern commercial and recreation center.

Patterson Field and Wright Field remained separate installations throughout World War II. As the war drew to a close, base leaders quickly recognized the need to make the most efficient use of their facilities. In 1945 they integrated the master plans for both fields and increasingly administrated the functions and services of the two fields as a single installation. This practice was formalized in December 1945 with the establishment of the Army Air Forces Technical Base, Dayton, Ohio, which provided base operational support to the combined bases. On January 13, 1948, the newly created U.S. Air Force officially merged Wright and Patterson Fields to create Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. To facilitate daily management, Patterson Field became "Area C" and Skyway Park became "Area D" of the installation. Area D was donated to the State of Ohio in 1963 for the creation of Wright State University.

Today Wright-Patterson Air Force Base is arguably the most important base in the Air Force. From its beginnings as the Wright brothers' testing field, it has evolved into the headquarters for the Air Force's worldwide logistics system and all Air Force systems development and procurement, the aeronautical engineering center, a major research laboratory complex, the heart of Air Force graduate education, location of the second largest Air Force medical center, and home of the National Museum of the U.S. Air Force. Wright-Patterson's age and history coupled with its vital air power missions, and significant functional architecture make it one of the Air Force's most historic bases.

These elements make Wright-Patterson a place where past, present and future meet. We hope you enjoy your stay!

Hangar 18

Wright-Patterson AFB is known among those involved with UFO conspiracy theories because of its connection with the Roswell UFO incident of July 1947. Some believe that Wright-Patterson's Hangar 18 contains or once contained wreckage of a crashed UFO.

Dayton Agreement

The base is also notable for being the site of the Dayton Agreement, also known as the Dayton Accords, the peace agreement that put an end to the three and a half years of Bosnian war, one of the armed conflicts in the former Socialist Federative Republic of Yugoslavia.

In Television

In April 2008, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base was featured on an episode of Ghost Hunters on the Sci-Fi channel. The episode investigated Building 70 and the Arnold House. They were reported to have investigated Building 219 as well, but this building was not shown.
